A furniture salesman from Queensland decided that he wanted to expand the line of furniture in his store, so he decided to go to Paris, France to see what he could find. After arriving in Paris (this being his first trip ever to the French capital), he met with some manufacturers and finally selected a line that he thought would sell well back home.

To celebrate the new acquisition, he decided to visit a small bistro and have a glass of wine. As he sat enjoying his wine, he noticed that the small place was quite crowded, and that the one other chair at his table was the only vacant seat in the house.

Before long, a very beautiful young Parisian girl came to his table, asked him something in French (which he did not understand), and motioned toward the chair. He invited her to sit down. He tried to speak to her in English, but she did not speak his language so, after a couple of minutes of trying to communicate with her, he took a napkin and drew a picture of a wine glass and showed it to her. She nodded, and he ordered a glass of wine for her.

After sitting together at the table for awhile, he took another napkin, and drew a picture of a plate with food on it, and she nodded. They left the bistro and found a quiet cafe that featured a small group playing romantic music. They ordered supper, after which he took another napkin and drew a picture of a couple dancing. She nodded, and they got up to dance. They danced until the cafe closed and the band was packing up.

To this day, he has no idea how she figured out that he was in the furniture business!.

Here and There

- ◆ Jacob 's is finally bike-less, but for how long? Sold the bike, kit and all to a budding mainlander,
- ◆ Richard fishing average last week was 1 fish/day over 5 days. Sounds reasonable.
- ◆ Peter Calvert has been inducted or whatever the correct term is for his year in the Masonic hierarchy. Has been busy in Melbourne.
- ◆ Dick's oral efforts sound impressive—singing to a 5 000 strong audience in Adelaide. You can catch the concert on Classic FM on Wednesday night.
- ◆ You thought that the medical profession used rubber gloves for that digital examination. WRONG Jacob used them at least to store money and to house a sausage for a customer's dog
- ◆ Our spinner at Shoreline was off to a good start, $52 plus $20 in bottle tops.
- ◆ Doctor to be George is going well with his academic exercise . We're looking forward to him being adorned with a hat with a tassel on the top.

Anaconda a great success

BBQ last week was well worthwhile. Took $1000 on Saturday. But that paled into insignificance on Sunday. An incredible day, sold most of the sausages and had to buy more bread. Perhaps it was people returning from the Richmond fair.

Took $2240.30 in total, profit around $1400 l.

Thanks to all those who helped.

Last week's talk

An impressive talk from our new member last week. Aaron gave an impressive talk about his life and work. He's obviously committed and enthusiastic about his role as Officer in Charge of Clarence Salvation Army. In his second year as a Salvation Army Officer, Aaron at 22 is their youngest officer in the world.

Born in Footscray Victoria, Aaron started his training at 18 after becoming enthused about the Salvos through his participation in a Youth Group at Hoppers Crossing in Victoria.

At Clarence the Salvation Army run

- ◆ A Doorways program 3 days per week in support of those in need
- ◆ Parenting Partners program for both 0-5 years and 6 –12 years to help people get “school ready “
- ◆ Break Free— which assists 14-17 year old girls at risk.

Aaron works with three Eastern Shore schools providing an active presence.

Aaron has great plans for Clarence Salvos and likened it to standing on the edge of a cliff. His goal for his programmes—“changing lives”

Some notes from our GSE Team in France (20 March)

This week we have some very interesting visits. Upon arriving in Ancenis we visited the Terrena Laiterie, which is a large cooperative cheese and butter factory. Gill was very concerned about the OH&S at this factory. 19,000t of brie is produced at this factory annually for France and Europe.

One very interesting thing about this club was that they had been bequeathed money to buy their very own club house and importantly they have their own bar. That night we had a meeting and presentation at the clubhouse with Muriel and Francois who are Gills first and favourite hosts.

Our second day at Ancenis included a visit to the Drouet freres (Drouet brothers) where they make wine from lots of small vineyards under contract. This company produces 12 million bottles of wine a year, 4 million of these bottles are recycled. (the bottles not the wine). Our afternoon visit was to Clisson village which is a town with Italian based architecture. That night we had an inside BBQ at the club house where we were presented with a photographic collage of all the embarrassing photos from this visit.

Another very interesting thing about the Ancenis club is that they sold Brioche (french sweet bread) in order to purchase shelter boxes for Chile.

Before departure to Angers we had a reception with the deputy mayor at town hall for a champagne breakfast where we exchanged gifts and walked away with a bottle of chancenis each, which is sparkling wine produced in Ancenis.

We then moved to Angers where we visited the modern tapestry museum in the former hospital building from the 12th century. We then went to Ernest Turc bulbs where they sold 9 million euros worth of bulbs last year.
